JEW'S ACCEPT NEW PEACE ORDER

'Let 'Em Yell,' Truman Says Of GOP Session Opposition

WASHINGTON, July 16—President Truman will bombard Congress with a series of messages when it convenes in special session in answer to his peremptory summons for Monday, July 26.

The chief executive is planning to carry the fight which he launched in Philadelphia in his acceptance speech direct to Congress by personal appearance before a joint session.

In this message, the President will call for immediate passage of legislation he considers vital to the country's economic welfare and which the legislature failed to enact before recessing three weeks ago.

Price control legislation tops the list. Housing legislation is considered the next most urgent problem.

Mr. Truman is planning a general message to the opening session in which all of the legislative subjects he outlined in his acceptance speech may be mentioned.

HOWEVER, individual messages will be sent to Congress in rapid succession with detailed proposals on the legislation he deems necessary.

The President maintains that Congress should never have recessed for the Summer until it took positive action to halt the continued rapid climb of prices and to provide some means of adequate low-cost housing, especially for veterans, as well as the other major points in his legislative program.

The President expected a howl of anguish to come from the Republican ranks and he expected to hear accusations that he was "playing politics."

The White House attitude was: "let 'em yell."

The President has received repeated warnings from his economic advisers that economic disaster ultimately faces the country if runaway prices continue without brakes being applied somewhere.

Resentful Republicans have conceded that housing and aid-to-education bills may be passed at the special session.

Although branding the President's call as a "desperate political move," the Republicans point out that housing and education bills already have passed the Senate and might be squeezed through the lower house this time.

Rep. Javits, (R) N. Y., said he will lead a move to force the Senate-passed Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill onto the House floor by petition. At least 218 signatures are needed and 152 were obtained before the regular session adjourned.

LITTLE prospect is seen for congressional action on the other subjects the President named—price curbs, civil rights, national health, minimum wage increase, broader Social Security and enlarged public power, reclamation, flood control and irrigation projects.

There is speculation among some House members that the Republican majority in Congress might give priority to civil rights measures as a device of accentuating the bitter Democratic Party split but otherwise little response to the Truman call is foreseen in the lower chamber.

The House already has passed an anti-poll tax bill while judiciary committees in both

3rd Party Parley Set

Philly Braced For Wallaceites

PHILADELPHIA, July 16—A welcome hull settled over convention-embattled Philadelphia today—but it was only temporary.

Tomorrow the advance guard for the third party national convention troops into town to prepare for the "new party" sessions opening next Friday in Convention Hall.

The third party arrangements committee is moving right into the Bellevue-Stratford hotel quarters vacated by the Democrats who had taken them over from the Republicans.

There'll be one marked difference in the Wallace convention as compared with the Democratic and GOP conclaves.

All you needed to get into convention hall for the major party candidates' acceptance speeches was an admission ticket—free. (Continued on Page Two)

Man Throws Child 75 Feet To Death

CINCINNATI, July 16—An apparently crazed man seized eight-year-old Patricia Jackson today as she played with two other children and threw her to her death from the 75-foot high Western Hills viaduct in suburban Cincinnati.

The tragedy was witnessed by hundreds of persons near the scene. The man was rushed and the first two men to reach him succeeded in disarming him of a knife he was carrying.

At police headquarters, the attacked said he was Henry Roberts, 33, of Richmond, Va. He told police he was a former patient in a mental hospital.

SHACKLED TOGETHER with handcuffs (arrow) around their ankles, Samuel McPhail, 5 (left), and his brother, James, 4, are found by police in their Los Angeles home. Saying that the boys had not been bathed in eight weeks, police arrested their father, Samuel Joseph McPhail Jr. Also held for investigation is a woman with whom authorities said McPhail had been living while his wife serves an eight-month jail term for forgery.

3 Men Hear Sentences Before County Court

Two men indicted by Pickaway County grand jury and a third arrested by state highway patrolmen on a traffic violation were sentenced Friday morning in Pickaway County common pleas court.

Ralph Young, 59, of Amanda, was sentenced to five days in the county jail, fined $50 and placed on 18-months probation when he pleaded guilty to assault and battery.

An indictment of cutting with intent to wound John Christy of Lancaster was returned against Young in the last session of grand jury.

Also indicted by grand jury, Hyram Smith, 27, of Peebles, pleaded guilty to forgery when he appeared before Judge William D. Radcliff and was placed on three years probation.

Judge Radcliff explained that Smith used only enough of the $15 he obtained from the bogus check to buy a package of cigarettes. He said Smith would make restitution for that.

THE THIRD-MAN to appear was George Bunn, 27, of Columbus, who was arrested last week by State Highway Patrolman C. E. Wells for driving while on a two-year suspension of his driving privilege.

Bunn pleaded guilty and the judge revoked his license for five years. In June, Bunn was fined $50 and handed a two-year suspension for driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Judge Radcliff told Bunn he would not be sentenced to jail since he already had been held for six days, but warned that if he ever came before the judge again, Bunn's license would be barred forever in the state.

Rump Convention Due Tomorrow

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 16—Mississippians who walked out of the National Democratic Convention, today were planning the ground work for a fourth party.

Gov. Fielding L. Wright, who heads the Mississippi group, flatly declared that he does not consider Mississippi to belong to the Democratic Party under its present leadership.

Wright explained, however, that he still regards Mississippi as Democratic despite party leadership, adding:

"We have not bolted the party. It left us."

The Mississippians, spearheading the scheme to form the "Jeffersonian Democratic Party," will be joined at Birmingham by representatives of other

Honesty Note Recorded Here

The last word in honesty was recorded at Circleville police department Friday.

Mrs. Elmer Sisco of Toledo, who had spent July Fourth picnicking in Logan Elm state park, had lost her pocketbook containing, among other valuables, an amount of currency.

Police were notified by postal card Friday the pocketbook had been found and returned by a Fremont family with everything intact.

Italian Red Federation Facing Complete Splitup

ROME, July 16—The Communist-dominated Italian General Confederation of Labor faced a major split today despite its decision to end its general strike.

Communist Chieftain Palmiro Togliatti, gravely wounded Wednesday in an assassination attempt which led to the general strike call, meanwhile was reported "not improved."

Labor unions allied with Premier Alcide De Gasperi's Christian Democratic Party were reported to have decided to break away completely from the confederation, Italy's central labor organization.

The confederation executive committee called off the strike when it became apparent that it could not succeed in its avowed purpose of overthrowing the De Gasperi government.

FIRST NEWS of the confederation split was made public by De Gasperi himself. He told the chamber of deputies:

"The chain of political strikes and agitations has brought labor unity to the inevitable cemetery."

An authoritative labor source said that the Christian Democratic unions decided to secede from the confederation because the latter failed to comply with an ultimatum that the strike be ended by midnight last night.

Safety Check Yields 1 Arrest, 98 Corrections

Light defects on passenger cars and absence of safety equipment on trucks were the main corrections ordered Thursday afternoon during the traffic check on South Court street.

The state highway patrol, sheriff's deputies and Circleville police combined their efforts to check a total of 465 cars and trucks. State Highway Patrolman C. E. Wells said 98 corrections were issued.

Gay Conrad of 315 Watt street, a truck driver, was the lone arrest made by checking officers.

Conrad was fined $50 and costs in Circleville mayor's court for using tags on his truck that were issued to another vehicle. He was arrested by Wells.

Circleville's main highway safety check, however, will be held next week, Patrolman Wells reported.

West Franklin street will be blocked off to traffic and a "string check" will be held on all vehicles passing.

Big 4 Meet Is Predicted

Berlin Dispute May Get Airing

WASHINGTON, July 16—Diplomatic quarters predicted today that a conference of the Big Four foreign ministers council will follow Russia's rejection of demands of the United States, Britain and France for immediate lifting of the Berlin blockade.

State department officials refused to discuss the situation other than to reiterate that the United States will not withdraw from the battered German capital, regardless of countermeasures undertaken by Soviet military command in Berlin.

For the present, Washington remained in consultation with London and Paris on the next steps to be taken following the Kremlin's note.

The Moscow note contended that the Western Allies had lost their legal right to maintain their positions in Berlin by violating the Potsdam agreements for four power control of Germany.

PITTSBURGH, July 16—Benjamin F. Fairless, president of U. S. Steel Corp., announced today that the corporation and CIO United Steelworkers have agreed on a new contract granting the workers an average increase of 13 cents-an-hour.

The wage increase, about nine percent, includes boosts ranging from 9 1/2 cents to 25 cents an hour, depending on various job classifications.

The agreement extends the present contract from its April 30, 1949 expiration date and affects 140 thousand employees.

World Panel Says Zion War To Halt

Fighting To Stop By Sunday Night

TEL AVIV, July 16—The Israeli government accepted today a United Nations Security Council resolution calling for cessation of Palestine hostilities within three days under penalty of sanctions.

A foreign office spokesman said the resolution will be carried out as soon as Israel has been informed that all the Arab governments have issued the necessary orders.

The United Nations order called for a permanent end to all fighting in Palestine by Sunday night.

The Security Council, in the most drastic action in the history of the world organization, has commanded both Jews and Arabs to end all hostilities within three days or face possible economic and military sanctions.

The council resolution, which declared the Palestine situation a threat to peace under the UN charter, orders a cease-fire in Jerusalem within 24 hours.

THE COUNCIL order was communicated to both the Arab League and the Israeli governments late last night.

Informed quarters believe that probably King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan will agree to the truce edict.

Abdullah is said to have favored the extension of the earlier four-week truce which was turned down by the Arab League.

Chief difficulties in connection with the new cease-fire, which is to remain in force until a permanent Holy Land solution is reached, are expected from Egypt and Syria.

Syria, a temporary member of the Security Council, was the only nation to vote "no" on the resolution.

The Soviet Union, the Ukraine and Argentina abstained.

529 County Vets Are Paid Total Of $165,339.34

Pickaway County veterans and next of kin of deceased veterans have received 529 Ohio World War II bonus checks totaling $165,339.34 in the period from April 28 through June 30.

Director Chester W. Goble of the compensation fund said the state has paid out more than $46 million to 140,000 veterans in all counties since the last of April.

Next of kind payments totaled $169,476.32 on an average claim of $387 as compared with $328 for living veterans, Goble declared.

He explained that a continuing rate of increase in payments would be made in July as a result of emphasis being placed on payment of all claims at the earliest possible date.

Cuyahoga County so far has received the largest amount of claim payments totalling $10,175,598.33; second, Franklin County with $4,255,759.99; and third, Hamilton County with $3,819,898.96 in total claim payments.

'County Farm Land Values Drop As City Prices Rise

The cost of living is climbing and wages are up, but so are mortgages filed and chattel loans made in the last 12 months for Pickaway Countians who are buying agriculture acres, city lands and lots.

A comparative two-year report ending June 30, 1948, compiled by County Recorder Florence Campbell, reveals a marked increase in mortgage backing and chattel loans made in the last year for property buys.

In effect, this means on the surface that countians are buying more goods and borrowing more money on the installment plan and pay-as-you-go terms. Mrs. Campbell's report covered the periods of July 1, 1946, to June 30, 1947, and July 1, 1947, to June 30, 1948.

It showed mortgages in the latter period totalling $2,546,792.86 compared to the previous period when $2,293,089.72 was the total mortgage figure.

Comparing the same two periods on chattel loans made, Mrs. Campbell said 3,368 were made in the last period against 2,523 in the previous 12 months, an increase of 845, she reported.

In 1946-47, the recorder stated

624 mortgages were filed compared to 626 last year. However, she pointed to the $253,703.14 increase in dollar value although only two more were filed.

Most indicative of skyrocketing real estate prices was the average cost per acre of city lands in the county in the last period in which dollar labels more than doubled the 1946-47 figure.

The recorder's figures show the average price per acre of city lands within corporation limits in the first period was $3,371.28. In the last 12 months it jumped to $8,865.51, a sharp increase of $5,494.23 on the acre.

Average price per acre of agriculture land, however, showed a slight drop over the previous real estate price. In the 1946-47 period, price was set at $145.02. In the last 12 months the price eased off to an average of $142.23 per acre.

A small increase in city, town and village lots was recorded during the latter months. In 1946-47, lots sold for an average of $4,337.14. The last 12 months they climbed to $4,357.84, Mrs. Campbell reported.

The increase in mortgages on land and chattel loans is an indirect indication, Mrs. Campbell said, that money is becoming tighter and people are buying on the installment plan to meet the rising costs of living.

Some, the recorder said, regard this as a favorable condition because it shows money is not being hoarded, that people are anxious to buy and that it stimulates healthy financial trading.

Meanwhile, others look upon the condition in an unfavorable light. It means to them, Mrs. Campbell said, that people are spending over their heads and beyond their means, and that they are going in debt.

In 1939 when the country was beginning to show recovery from the depression, Pickaway Countians mortgaged 15,755.37 acres of agriculture land, city land and lots for a total of $802,655.54, a sizeable decrease from the records of the last two years.

During those post-depression years, countians listed 3,599 chattel loans which was well above the 1946-47 figure, but only 81 more than recorded in the last 12 months, the recorder pointed out.

Comparing land prices with current figures of the last two years, the 1939-40 land quotes were well below the average price today.

Average price per acre of agriculture land then was $80.23; city lands—$1,954.37 per acre; and $1,207.06 for city lots. Prices have since almost doubled in agriculture lands; have quadrupled on city land acres; and almost quadrupled for city lots, the comparative reports show.

Here is a comparison of how much land is mortgaged in the county:

In 1939-40, 15,755.37 acres were backed by mortgages; in 1946-47 acreage climbed to 17,803.43 acres; and in the last 12 months a slight drop was shown to 16,446.27 acres.

For more comparisons, Mrs. Campbell said in 1939-40 mortgages were cancelled on 10,438.42 acres of all lands worth $644,365.86; in 1946-47 cancellations were marked on 20,036.31 acres amounting to $1,422,629.74; and in 1947-48 some 18,423.05 acres were cancelled from mortgages worth $1,571,635.52.

The recorder's file shows 834 deeds were recorded in 1946-47, in addition to 30 leases, 624 mortgages and 504 mortgage cancellations. This is compared to the last 12 months when 791 deeds were recorded; 41 leases listed; 626 mortgages filed and 476 mortgages cancelled.

more money on the installment plan and pay-as-you-go terms.

Mrs. Campbell's report covered the periods of July 1, 1946, to June 30, 1947, and July 1, 1947, to June 30, 1948.

It showed mortgages in the latter period totalled $2,546,792.86 compared to the previous period when $2,293,089.72 was the total mortgage figure.

Comparing the same two periods on chattel loans made, Mrs. Campbell said 3,368 were made in the last period against 2,523 in the previous 12 months, an increase of 845, she reported.

In 1946-47, the recorder stated

624 mortgages were filed compared to 626 last year. However, she pointed to the $253,703.14 increase in dollar value although only two more were filed.

Most indicative of skyrocketing real estate prices was the average cost per acre of city lands in the county in the last period in which dollar labels more than doubled the 1946-47 figure.

The recorder's figures show the average price per acre of city lands within corporation limits in the first period was $3,371.28. In the last 12 months it jumped to $8,865.51, a sharp increase of $5,494.23 on the acre.

Average price per acre of agriculture land, however, showed a slight drop over the previous real estate price. In the 1946-47 period, price was set at $145.02. In the last 12 months the price eased off to an average of $142.23 per acre.

A small increase in city, town and village lots was recorded during the latter months. In 1946-47, lots sold for an average of $4,337.14. The last 12 months they climbed to $4,357.84, Mrs. Campbell reported.

The increase in mortgages on land and chattel loans is an indirect indication, Mrs. Campbell said, that money is becoming tighter and people are buying on the installment plan to meet the rising costs of living.

Some, the recorder said, regard this as a favorable condition because it shows money is not being hoarded, that people are anxious to buy and that it stimulates healthy financial trading.

Meanwhile, others look upon the condition in an unfavorable light. It means to them, Mrs. Campbell said, that people are spending over their heads and beyond their means, and that they are going in debt.

In 1939 when the country was beginning to show recovery from the depression, Pickaway Countians mortgaged 15,755.37 acres of agriculture land, city land and lots for a total of $802,655.54, a sizeable decrease from the records of the last two years.

During those post-depression years, countians listed 3,599 chattel loans which was well above the 1946-47 figure, but only 81 more than recorded in the last 12 months, the recorder pointed out.

Comparing land prices with current figures of the last two years, the 1939-40 land quotes were well below the average price today.

Average price per acre of agriculture land then was $80.23; city lands—$1,954.57 per acre; and $1,207.06 for city lots. Prices have since almost doubled in agriculture lands; have quadrupled on city land acres; and almost quadrupled for city lots, the comparative reports show.

Here is a comparison of how much land is mortgaged in the county:

In 1939-40, 15,755.37 acres were backed by mortgages; in 1946-47 acreage climbed to 17,803.43 acres; and in the last 12 months a slight drop was shown to 16,446.27 acres.

For more comparisons, Mrs. Campbell said in 1939-40 mortgages were cancelled on 10,438-42 acres of all lands worth $644,365.86; in 1946-47 cancellations were marked on 20,036.31 acres amounting to $1,422,629.74; and in 1947-48 some 18,438.05 acres were cancelled from mortgages worth $1,571,635.52.

The recorder's file shows 834 deeds were recorded in 1946-47, in addition to 30 leases, 624 mortgages and 504 mortgage cancellations. This is compared to the last 12 months when 791 deeds were recorded; 41 leases listed; 626 mortgages filed and 476 mortgages cancelled.

The United States, Great Britain, France and China, voted "yes." The resolution gives Mediator Count Folke Bernadotte full authority to establish truce observation machinery.

Bernadotte has deferred until tomorrow his scheduled return to his Isle of Rhodes headquarters in order to expedite organization of the necessary truce agencies.

IT IS EXPECTED that a special thousand-man Jerusalem police force—to be furnished one-third each by the United States, France and Belgium—will shortly be called up for service in the holy city.

The announcement of Israel's acceptance of the UN order followed a heavy Jewish air raid on the huge Egyptian air field and concentration base of El Arish near Cairo in which seven tons of bombs were dropped.

Private advices said that installations and grounded planes were hit by the Jewish bombers, which presumably flew more than 350 miles from Palestine airports to strike at Egypt's capital and its environs.

The El Arish raid followed the first attack on Cairo itself last night when a single Jewish plane flew over the ancient city and dropped a few bombs.

At the same time, one high-flying Arab raiding plane dropped incendiary bombs on Tel Aviv, causing only slight damage. There were no casualties.

Iraqi aircraft, according to a communiqué from Baghdad, carried out an assault on Jewish ships in Haifa harbor.

The Egyptian craft struck at 11 p. m. in a second successive night raid against Tel Aviv. Israeli fighter planes went into the air to challenge the raiders and the Jews reported that they forced the Egyptians to drop their bombs and incendiaries before the attackers reached their target.

Restraint Seen In Garbage Case

CANTON, July 16—Willard E. Heinbuch was to seek a restraining order today in Stark County common pleas court to prevent the city of Canton from burying garbage on a 60-acre tract south of the city.

Heinbuch, who lives on land adjoining the site, has contended that the city disposal plan will "constitute a nuisance and a definite health hazard."

The city was to start dumping today on the tract following expiration of a garbage disposal contract between the city and the Canton Hog Ranch Co.

WHEELING, W. Va., July 16—Ten persons arrested in three surprise police raids in Wheeling faced race horse gambling charges today.

In the first major cleanup since last fall included in its net William Reuther, 45, and Harry Clouse, 50, widely-known night club figures. Both posted $106 bond.

Police Chief Robert Kennedy, who ordered the raids, said the arrests were made without warrants on places where horse race bets were accepted.

Ford Walkout Is Threatened

DETROIT, July 16—State and federal mediators are expected to make a last-minute effort today to stave off a threatened walkout of 116,000 Ford Motor Co. employees.

The council authorized Ken Bannan, top UAW official in the Ford negotiations, to set a strike date.

2 Jet Flights Held By Storm

Meanwhile, a flight of British jet planes enroute from England to Montreal also was grounded at the Labrador field.

Spokesman for the states' rights faction indicated, meanwhile, that the agenda of the Birmingham rum session probably will be limited to the drafting of campaign plans, with an over-all objective of rallying Southern voters behind a man who does not believe in the objectionable policies of the present leaders of the Democratic Party.

Alert Sounded For Writer Of Rubber Checks

A six-county alarm has been sounded by sheriff's offices for Junior Ebon Taylor, 26, of near Era, who is suspected by authorities of forging checks in areas surrounding Pickaway County.

Two checks passed recently in this county bounced for more than $121, Sheriff Charles Radcliff reported. Most of the checks he said, were made privately on a printing press.

The latest checks now in hands of county authorities were printed in the name of one Jay C. Speaker, Inc., Contractors, of Maysville, payable at the First National Bank there.

Radcliff said the checks were forged on a photostatic machine to a James Taylor, reportedly the name of Junior Ebon Taylor's brother, who also is wanted by the sheriff's office.

Businessmen throughout the county were alerted to be on the watch of checks bearing any resemblance to those described by the sheriff.

All certificates which have bounced bore the marking "No such bank in existence."

Taylor served a sentence in the Mansfield reformatory in 1946 following his arrest here by Deputy Carl Radcliff.

chambers have given clearance to anti-lynch legislation.

Most of the other legislation which President Truman wants Congress to handle still is in the committee stage. This includes aid to education, national health, and such public power bills as the St. Lawrence Seaway.

On Social Security, Congress passed a stop-gap "status quo" freezing classes of persons already in the Social Security program but barring an estimated 750,000. The administration would have added this number by re-interpretation of the law.

Bills to increase the minimum wage still are before committees, along with fair employment practices legislation.

DISPLACED persons legislation was passed by Congress, permitting a maximum of 200,000 war-homeless Europeans to enter the United States, but placing occupational and other restrictions upon them.

Advocates of a more liberal bill contended, as did Mr. Truman, that only a part of the 200,000 would clear the barriers.

BUT THE Wallace acceptance speech will be delivered with a "cover charge" at Shibe Park next Saturday night. It will cost $2.60 for seats to hear the former vice-president pledge to do battle against the Democrats and Republicans in November.

Regular sessions of the third party convention will be held in the same auditorium in which the Republicans nominated Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and the Democrats chose President Truman.

The Wallace platform committee, headed by the former New Dealer, Rexford Guy Tugwell, will begin its work Wednesday.

The convention will vote on the platform at its final session on Sunday, July 25.

A Negro publisher, Charles P. Howard, 53, of Des Moines, has been proposed as the keynote speaker. Howard has been prominent in Republican circles in his state for 25 years.

Alert Sounded For Writer Of Rubber Checks

A six-county alarm has been sounded by sheriffs' offices for Junior Ebon Taylor, 26, of near Era, who is suspected by authorities of forging checks in areas surrounding Pickaway County.

Two checks passed recently in this county bounced for more than $121. Sheriff Charles Radcliff reported. Most of the checks he said, were made privately on a printing press.

The latest checks now in hands of county authorities were printed in the name of one Jay C. Speaker, Inc., Contractors, of Mayssville, payable at the First National Bank there.

Radcliff said the checks were forged on a photostatic machine payable to a James Taylor, reportedly the name of Junior Ebon Taylor's brother, who also is wanted by the sheriff's office.

Businessmen throughout the county were alerted to be on the watch of checks bearing any resemblance to those described by the sheriff.

All certificates which have bounced bore the marking "No such bank in existence."

Taylor served a sentence in the Mansfield reformatory in 1946 following his arrest here by Deputy Carl Radcliff.

chambers have given clearance to anti-lynch legislation.

Most of the other legislation which President Truman wants Congress to handle still is in the committee stage. This includes aid to education, national health, and such public power bills as the St. Lawrence Seaway.

On Social Security, Congress passed a stop-gap "status quo" freezing classes of persons already in the Social Security program but barring an estimated 750,000. The administration would have added this number by re-interpretation of the law.

Bills to increase the minimum wage still are before committees, along with fair employment practices legislation.

DISPLACED persons legislation was passed by Congress, permitting a maximum of 200,000 war-homeless Europeans to enter the United States, but placing occupational and other restrictions upon them.

Advocates of a more liberal bill contended, as did Mr. Truman, that only a part of the 200,000 would clear the barriers.

JUST WILD ABOUT HARRY

Delegates Find Truman Is New, Strong Fighter

PHILADELPHIA, July 16—He looked, as usual, like everybody's next door neighbor as he sat on the rostrum in his neat ice cream suit and his black-and-white Summer exfolids.

But he acted like a lion tamer when he stood up before the Democratic national convention at 2 a. m. yesterday and lifted the weary, steaming delegates out of their seats with the only really confident, fighting speech they'd heard in a three-day hurricane of convention oratory.

He'll probably look pretty much like John Q. Public until the day he dies. But the new and improved Harry S. Truman who accepted the Democratic nomination for the presidency yesterday looked and sounded every inch a President and a presidential candidate.

This man in the white suit, who resembles so much Mr. Average Citizen, didn't look or sound defeated, licked, scared or intimidated by:

(1) The major Republican threat in this election year, or
(2) The sorry record of his own party leadership and this convention in their wild and futile attempts to rid themselves of him as the 1948 standard bearer.

THIRTY-FIVE Southern delegates had walked out only a few hours earlier rather than accept him as the Democratic presidential nominee. But he rose above insult to stand before the convention with homely dignity.

It was 1:42 a. m., seven hours after the long, suffocating night session started, when the President, Mrs. Truman and their daughter, Margaret, were finally escorted to the platform.

It seems doubtful if any bridegroom ever waited longer at the church while relatives of the bride decided whether he was good enough for the girl.

Mr. Truman went to the front of the platform and sat quietly for seven minutes before he was introduced by the convention chairman, Rep. Sam Rayburn.

When the President got up to speak at 1:55 a. m., he showed the crowd who was boss from the beginning. Delegates and gallery gods alike yelled for him to move the microphones so they could get a clearer view of his face.

But Mr. Truman had already put a loose-leaf note book, with what few notes he used for his extemporaneous speech, on the rostrum. To move the mikes would hide the few notes. The President looked at the crowd and in reply to their loud cries said a firm "No." He added: "If I do that, I can't see what I'm doing." And, he added significantly:

"I ALWAYS see what I'm doing."

That delighted the crowd. It was with him from that moment as he delivered a fighting speech with enough heart in it to buck up even the most abdicating, pusillanimous delegate in the house.

Even in the intense heat, after a day and night of endless sessions and wrangling, the delegates sat quietly to hear him speak. For once, the convention was orderly. Suddenly, it had been invested with dignity.

All over Convention Hall, delegates peered intently at their candidate, taking a new measure of the man. He spoke with authority, with precision and with challenge.

He spoke as if the battle ahead would be hard, but as if the fight were not already lost by default.

As the delegates assessed their candidate, they saw before them a man who looked pretty much like themselves who, by an act of God, had been thrust into the hardest job in the world. He looked pretty much like the average American citizen, doing his best in a tough spot.

Well, you can't sue a man for that, the delegates opined.

And when the President finished his hard-hitting, never-say-die speech, the exhausted, punch-drunk delegates stood up to give him a rousing ovation indicating that—after all—they are "Just Wild About Harry."

The year 1947 was a record one for the production of farm equipment, stoves, ranges, trucks and washing machines.

Officials Probe Cop's Affairs

CLEVELAND, July 16—Prosecution attorneys were to conduct further investigation today into the financial affairs of Ernest L. Molnar, former Cleveland police lieutenant charged with accepting bribes from policy racketeers.

Safety boxes of Molnar were to be opened before court convenes today. Prosecution Finance Expert Saul S. Danaceau said the boxes were not expected to shed much light on Molnar's accounts since his wife had visited them before the probe opened.

Assistant Cuyahoga County Prosecutor Danaceau estimated Molnar's spending over the past 10 years as at least $43,365.86, during which time he averaged less than $3,000 a year as a police officer.

Liquor Chiefs Warn Gamblers

AKRON, July 16—The state liquor control board left behind today in Akron a warning for county officials who tolerate slot machine operations in drinking spots.

The four-man panel wound up its three day stay here yesterday by threatening a withholding of state liquor funds from counties which permit slot machines to operate in cafes selling intoxicants.

The board revoked three liquor permits and handed out 12 suspensions ranging from 30 days to five months in its Akron probe.

Boy, 2, Killed By Electricity

LONDON, July 16—Funeral arrangements were made today for Larry French, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard French of London, who was electrocuted yesterday, when he stuck his finger in an electric socket.

Sheriff Harold R. Bidwell said the boy apparently was wet from playing in Lake Madison, five miles east of here, when he picked up the open socket and touched it. His mother had disconnected the cord from a washer only a short time earlier.

Air Force OKs New Suit With Triple Feature

DAYTON, July 16—The Air Force at nearby Wright Field revealed a new line in airmen's wear today and unlike the so-called "new look," this article has its points.

It's a head to toe garment that serves in a triple role. For everyday aviation the latest issue serves as a light flying suit. But for the luckless one who abandons ship in mid-air, the light cylinder. Instantaneously a sausage-like balloon encircles the neck and a bladder-like affair pops out of the chest section.

What is more the water-bound flier can depend on his suit for a temporary livelihood. Pockets on the back of the trouser legs contain supplies that will keep him alive for weeks.

These are designed to keep the airmen alive if he lands in open water after his parachute jump.

Officials Probe Cop's Affairs

CLEVELAND, July 16—Prosecution attorneys were to conduct further investigation today into the financial affairs of Ernest L. Molnar, former Cleveland police lieutenant charged with accepting bribes from policy racketeers.

Safety boxes of Molnar were to be opened before court convenes today. Prosecution Finance Expert Saul S. Danaceau said the boxes were not expected to shed much light on Molnar's accounts since his wife had visited them before the probe opened.

Assistant Cuyahoga County Prosecutor Danaceau estimated Molnar's spending over the past 10 years as at least $43,365.86, during which time he averaged less than $3,000 a year as a police officer.

Liquor Chiefs Warn Gamblers

AKRON, July 16—The state liquor control board left behind today in Akron a warning for county officials who tolerate slot machine operations in drinking spots.

The four-man panel wound up its three day stay here yesterday by threatening a withholding of state liquor funds from counties which permit slot machines to operate in cafes selling intoxicants.

The board revoked three liquor permits and handed out 12 suspensions ranging from 30 days to five months in its Akron probe.

Boy, 2, Killed By Electricity

LONDON, July 16—Funeral arrangements were made today for Larry French, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard French of London, who was electrocuted yesterday, when he stuck his finger in an electric socket.

Sheriff Harold R. Bidwell said the boy apparently was wet from playing in Lake Madison, five miles east of here, when he picked up the open socket and touched it. His mother had disconnected the cord from a washer only a short time earlier.

Akron Facing Transit Battle

AKRON, July 16—Warfare between the Akron Transportation Co., and the city administration flared again today as city and company negotiators battled over a service-at-cost franchise.

An ATC statement renewed charges that city officials had acted in "complete bad faith" in dealing with the company.

The statement criticized Mayor Charles E. Slusser for not testifying at the trial of an injunction suit brought by the ATC.

Air Force OKs New Suit With Triple Feature

DAYTON, July 16—The Air Force at nearby Wright Field revealed a new line in airmen's wear today and unlike the so-called "new look," this article has its points.

It's a head to toe garment that serves in a triple role. For everyday aviation the latest issue serves as a light flying suit. But for the luckless one who abandons ship in mid-air, the

NUNS IN STREET DRESS

ONE OF the most hotly contested state issues in North Dakota in recent years concerned an act prohibiting a school teacher from wearing garb denoting membership in a religious order. By a close margin, the act has just been ratified in a referendum.

Whether or not such result was the objective, it was thought at first that the act would prevent some 75 Catholic nuns from continuing to teach in the public schools. However, officials of the diocese ruled that nuns who desire to continue their teaching jobs may do so, complying with the law by wearing ordinary dress in place of the conventional garb of the nun.

The North Dakota act and the controversy surrounding it are perhaps symptoms of a growing interest in re-examination of the practices and ideas which have developed around the separation of church and state, a traditional American tenet. In some instances this questioning has led toward a more liberal interpretation, while in others the reverse has been true.

The unruffled reaction of the Catholic Church in North Dakota is admirably practical. It is reiteration that, however precious may be such traditions as the nunish garb, what is in the heart is more than what is worn for the world to see.

BOYS' TOWNS IN ITALY

IN ITALY, as in other countries in Europe, the most tragic victims of war are the displaced children, who are said to have reached the number of 200,000.

An organization consisting of Americans of Italian descent, headed by Judge Juvenal Marchisio of Chicago, is attempting to help some of these youngsters by the establishment of boys' republics, modeled on the well-known Boys' Town in Nebraska.

Youthful vagrants, some seemingly headed for lives of crime, have been gathered together in miniature republics, where they live, learn, work, and govern themselves. The boys are on the way to becoming good citizens, thanks to funds raised in America, supplemented by help from Irish, Swiss, Belgians, and others.

This is a constructive enterprise, worthy of financial support. The late Father Flanagan of Boys' Town founded his work on the belief that there are no bad boys, only temporarily misguided ones. The working out of this theory among the flotsam of war might produce good citizens who will hold Italy's future in their hands.

Report says the Communist Information Bureau picks Russian government as a model. Just goes to show the sort of information it has.

These Days

George E. Sokolsky's

The right of a people to change their government has become rare. Government by the consent of the governed was the ideal of Nineteenth Century liberalism and an increasingly large number of countries adopted constitutions, parliaments and some form of representative government. Even nations like China, Japan, Turkey, Persia and Russia in the early Twentieth Century approached this problem with some decision.

By liberty was meant freedom of choice in the selection of government and the legal rights of man defined to protect him against the state. As Benjamin Franklin put it:

"Those who would give up essential liberty to purchase a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety."

This process of increasing the rights of the individual in the control of his government is now arrested. The effect of two wars and the disorganizations that followed each has been to substitute the tyrant or an oligarchy for representative government. The rights of the people have decreased or have been obliterated altogether. Hitler, Mussolini, Franco, Salazar, Pilsudski, Chiang Kai-shek and the oligarchy, called the Politburo, headed by Stalin are representative of the current trend.

Daniel Webster once said: "The last hopes of mankind rest with us; and if it should be proclaimed that our example had become an argument against the experiment, the knell of popular liberty would be sounded throughout the earth."

And he was much more correct than he could have known at that time. For what has actually happened is that the remaining free peoples have become to an increasing degree dependent not only economically but politically dependent upon the continued success and stability of the United States. Should the economy of this country falter, the whole of Western Europe will suffer a political defeat either by revolution or by imitation. Should our political institutions degenerate, free institutions everywhere would be denounced as incapable of sustained existence.

That is why the two conventions, the Republican and Democratic are so important this year. It is not so much a question of personalities as it is that the public debate on great issues should be broad and full. For that is the very nature of free institutions. It is during campaign years that the politicians can be made to respond to the challenge of the people.

Politicians are the mechanics of partisan victories. Their judgments are limited by their tasks. Few of them are really concerned with matters of fundamental principle or national welfare. Their business is to win elections, to twist and turn, to scheme and trick, to highlight and subordinate until they have beguiled or convinced or wearied the voter into an acceptance of their candidates. After the victory is won, they calculate their promises and pray that the public memory is short and that the confusions of the moment will result in forgetfulness over the promise.

Ordinarily, in a free society, time works wonders, particularly in so rich a country as ours. But time is running short because of the pressure from outside. For instance, while the Republican convention consumed the attention of the people of this country, the Berlin situation developed. During the Democratic convention, there was the Berlin blockade dispute.

candidates into office, would treat the nation to a sight not seen since the very early days of the Truman administration—co-operation between the White House and Congress.

Some Washington observers, who are cool toward the GOP, are willing to admit that political accord between the White House and Capitol Hill—even Republican accord—would be better than the present bickering and name calling.

They point out that now is the time for unity, and that a unity which includes some ideas and policies you don't like is better than none at all.

● POLICY MAKERS AND DEWEY—Only a few top State department policy makers are worried that a Republican victory in November will sweep them out.

Most of them would not mind being retired inasmuch as they are working at a financial sacrifice. Men like Undersecretary Robert A. Lovett and Assistant Secretary Willard Thorp already have businesses of their own to which they would gladly return.

Those highminded individuals who work for the State department because they believe in present policy are more assured now that both major GOP candidates are advocates of the bi-partisan policy as developed during and since the war.

● SECRETARY OF LABOR—Administration sources are frank to admit that one of the most important qualifications for a new secretary of labor is that he be a good political campaigner.

In filling the post made vacant by the death of Labor Secretary Lewis Schwellenbach, President Truman naturally has his eye upon the 1948 political race.

With the creation of an Independent Mediation Service and removal of the United States Employment Service from the Labor department, the job of administering that agency has dwindled almost to nothing.

However, the administration wants a man of Cabinet stature who can take to the speaking platform and stump for the Democratic ticket in the campaign ahead.

The recommendations of the AFL and CIO also have to be heard, thus complicating the task of filling the Labor secretary's position. It is extremely difficult nowadays for the two big union organizations to agree on anything.

Helping a Child Who Stutters

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE person who stutters is unable to speak freely and evenly. He has special difficulty with certain syllables which he may repeat almost endlessly before being able to link them up with those that should follow to form a complete word or phrase. It is estimated that there are at least one million people in the United States who suffer from this stumbling and spasmodic form of speech.

This is perhaps an evidence of our poor handling of our children because it is pretty well established that stuttering has its roots in emotional disturbances during early childhood. If the causes of the child's unhappiness are removed and nothing is done to fix his attention on his disability, it usually disappears without his ever becoming conscious of the problem.

Becomes Ingrained
But if, through scoldings and corrections, stuttering becomes ingrained, it is likely to persist through life and to defy all the treatments ever devised to overcome it. In the past these have included everything from surgery to hypnosis. Today, however, emphasis has shifted and it is felt now that best results will be obtained by treating the parents rather than the child, particularly in early cases.

It is of first importance that the child not be made aware that he stutters or is abnormal in any way. To this end, parents must be taught a more tolerant and less critical attitude.

Among the causes of early stuttering are over-stimulation or pampering. In this situation it is impossible for the child to relax, and his nervous tension causes him to stutter.

Over-concern on the part of the parents about the child's eating, plus efforts to force him to eat certain foods, may have the same effect.

Invites Stuttering
The mother who hovers over her child constantly, always with a caution or a "don't" on her lips, is simply inviting the child to stutter by depriving him of all freedom and relaxation.

Insecurity, due to parental quarrels, frequent changes of residence, or disagreements about the child's training, is another cause of stuttering.

Thus, it is plain that before stuttering can be corrected, the particular factor involved in a particular case must be found and eliminated. Once parents are persuaded to give up their mistaken ways, the child usually regains his normal, free-flowing speech.

Of course, in older children or in adults, where the habit of stuttering has become set, this method of treatment will not avail. The older patient must be taught by more direct means to develop normal, relaxed speech. Both individual and classroom instruction is used to good advantage in these cases and many universities have opened speech clinics where stutterers can be treated.

The important thing for parents to remember is that the stuttering child should be given treatment as soon as the defect develops, because it can then be completely overcome. Later on anything like a complete cure may be impossible. However, it must be remembered that when the child first learns to speak, he may stutter because his thoughts are formed faster than he can express them. This must not be confused with real stuttering.

Answer: I know of no evidence that varicose veins are hereditary. The exact cause of their development is not known, although conditions which contribute to blocking of the flow of blood may be a factor in their production.

Play Bridge With BARCLAY

MAKE COMPLETE PLAN
NO MATTER how good any play may be, when considered as of itself alone, it can be the wrong move if it does not fit in as a logical part of the entire play of the hand. There are plenty of players, however, who "can't be bothered" by such things as complete plans. They begin to make in tricks in one suit or another as soon as they see what appears a good way to do it. Later on, they find sometimes that they should not have made one or more of those early "good plays," but some other play or plays.

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE

ELLERY chuckled. "I bet Eph is sorry he gave you that cat, Andrew. He says it's lonesome down at the filling station these days. He says hardly anybody stops to talk to the summer—just a lot of tourists who want their gas, and get away in a hurry."

Gloria took it up. "He said the only East Branded people he'd seen today were Carol Thompson and Ralph Estabrook, and they didn't count."

Andrew spoke quickly. "He saw them? When?"

"I don't know; he didn't say. Sometime this afternoon, I guess."

"It was this afternoon," Ellery volunteered unexpectedly. "I was there when they came by. Ralph said they were going up to his shack in the hills, and that's a long drive, so he filled up his tank."

"Where does Eph live, by the way?" Andrew kept his voice casual. "I want to see him this evening about something."

"I'll show you, Mr. Paulson," Ellery said. "Time I was going home anyway."

Ellery was mute with admiration of the Cadillac all the way to the large sprawling house where Eph lived with an assortment of relatives. The piazza ran the whole width of the building and halfway down the sides as well. As far as Andrew could see, every one of the inhabitants was rocking on that porch—each in his own tempo.

Eph occupied the central rocker, a mammoth affair, constructed to give good service to his ample figure. He grunted a greeting to Andrew, waved a hand at Ellery, and said, "Glad to see you. Won't you set a wheel?"

Andrew lowered his voice. "I need your help, Eph. Can you come for a ride?"

"Sure, sure." The big man got out of the chair with a surprisingly lithe movement. "Important?"

"I think so," Andrew said, leading the way to the car.

"Always wanted to ride in this thing," Eph said, smoothing the leather cushion with one hand. "What's the trouble?"

Andrew twitched a mobile eyebrow at his friend. "How did you know there was trouble?"

"Andy," Eph said, hoisting his bulk around in the seat so that he could look squarely at his friend's face, "unless you've got money to squander, you'd better never play poker."

"I get it . . . There is trouble, Eph. Carol and Ralph Estabrook stopped at your place this afternoon to get gas, I hear, on their way to the lake. I want you to show me the way to that shack. Carol hasn't come home, and her people are frantic."

Eph snorted with disgust. "That Ralph! He has the instincts of a — No, I won't say it! . . . Turn here, Andy. This is the road . . . It was Carol who let it drop about their going up to the place. He never would have, I guess. But once she'd said it, he made a great to-do about how they'd be able to get there, and take a look around, and be back in time for supper . . . How fast you goin', anyhow?"

"Sixty-five."

"Good grief! I hope my Samarian instincts don't land me in a plaster cast!"

"I gather it's a long drive," Andrew's profile was lean and tense in the light from the dashboard.

"Not so long in miles," Eph corrected him mournfully, "because we don't stay on this road. But it's terrible rough later on. You'll have to go slow then or bust your springs."

"I'll bust 'em when I get there," Andrew said with compressed fury. He hated the thought of his friend Sayre, hunting through the night for Carol—an old man with a weak heart. She ought to be spanked—hard!

Eph sighed. "Better begin to slow down, Andy. There's a short cut we can take in a mile or so."

The short cut proved to be a small gravelled road in decent condition which, Eph swore, cut off about seven miles. The two men rode in an anxious silence. When Eph finally pointed out the narrow, rutted lane which led steeply uphill toward the "shack," Andrew sat straighter. It was almost ten when they got there, but their reward was the light which came in a thin thread from behind the drawn curtains at the windows.

"They're here." The headlights picked up Ralph's car, parked at one side of the clearing around the house. Andrew got out, and Eph followed him. Apparently they had approached silently enough to give no warning to the two within, for everything was quiet. Suddenly they heard a high-pitched laugh, a giggling, foolish laugh that ended in a surprised hiccup.

Andrew strode to the door, knocked once, and opened before the sound of the knock had died on the quiet evening air. Ralph Estabrook, sprawled in a big chair, goggled at them, his mouth a silly gaping hole in his vacant face. Half on his lap, half on the arm of the chair, was Carol. She waved an airy hand at Andrew and lost her balance, falling half across Ralph.

"Hail the conquering (hic) hero comes!" she intoned.

Andrew picked her up, and sat her on the floor since she could not or would not stand. Ralph weaved to his feet, then, a faint belligerence beginning to supplant the silly smile. "You're my girl—alone," he said.

Andrew paid no attention. He strode to the rear of the one-room shack, where he had spied a small sink with a pump. He picked up a stew-pan, pumped it full of cold water, and came back to throw it unceremoniously in Ralph's face. The shock sent that young man floundering back in his chair, but he staggered up again, considerably sobered, and in a towering rage. Andrew ignored him. The pan was filled a second time, and this time Carol got it. She screamed, and then burst into tears.

Andrew stooped over her, lifted her to her feet. "Here," he said, feeling like a brute, "here's my handkerchief. Dry your face, Carol."

A commotion behind him started- led him, and he wheeled around in time to see Ralph mixing it with Eph. At any other time, the sight would have made him laugh—the slim wiry young man, still more than half drunk, and the portly, middle-aged Eph. Ralph was laughing with surprising force, but Eph, light on his feet as so many stout people are, moved with astonishing agility. Even so, Andrew was afraid of what would happen if Ralph could land only one blow on Eph's well upholstered midriff.

He moved to help his friend, and came down on the floor with a crash that jarred him from head to feet.

When his head cleared, Ralph was lying beside him, feebly stirring, and Eph was dusting off his hands with a professional gesture.

"What happened?" Andrew demanded, rising slowly, and feeling his anatomy for injury.

"She tripped you," Eph said, jerking his head toward Carol. "I saw it out of the corner of my eye."

"Yes, but what happened to Ralph?"

"Oh, him!" Eph said with heavily assumed nonchalance, but his pride shone through, nevertheless. "I hit him . . . When you fell down, he was fool enough to turn his head to look, and laid himself wide open."

They stopped talking then. They led Carol to the car, Andrew making sure she had left nothing telling behind her, and put her between them. The drive back passed in bleak silence until they were nearing Branfield. Then Carol spoke. "I suppose you'll make the most of this—both of you," she said with the undiluted bitterness of youth. "I suppose you'll spread it around."

"You underestimate our respect for your grandfather," Andrew said reprovingly, still angry at her. Her voice was hard. "My mother drinks, too," she offered in roundabout extenuation of her escapade.

"So what?" he said roughly.

She started to cry, and Andrew cringed inwardly, but he kept his tone unsympathetic. "Do you admire your mother?" he asked.

She did not answer for such a long time, that he was about to repeat his question when she spoke. "I see what you mean," she said. "No, I don't. Not really . . . I've always envied her, I guess. She's so beautiful, and she wears lovely clothes, and leads a very—gay—life . . . But I don't admire her."

"Do you think she's happy?"

"Oh, no." She said it quickly, and without stopping to think. Then she turned her head to look at Andrew. "How did you know?"

"I've known a lot of people who were handsome, and had fine clothes, and led a gay social life. But very few of them were happy . . . And I've never known anyone who drank to excess who was happy . . . Don't you want to be happy?"

"Who doesn't?" she cried. "But I don't know how!"

Stassen May Receive Defense Post Offer

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—The ashes of defeat may have a bitter taste for GOP Presidential Nominee Thomas E. Dewey's chief rivals—Senator Robert A. Taft, Harold E. Stassen and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg.

However, with the GOP united after the Dewey blitz and all Republicans agreed that the choice of California's Gov. Earl Warren for vice president is an excellent one, there is a brightening future for Taft, Stassen and Vandenberg.

This is assuming, of course, that Dewey is victorious in November, which virtually all political experts view as a lead pipe cinch.

Taft probably will remain the majority policy leader in the Senate. He will be a real star on the Dewey team. His influence in national affairs, already tremendous, should continue to grow.

Stassen, the virile young man from Minnesota, who touched off the GOP convention's only spontaneous demonstration, is certain to be offered a high post.

There is talk already that Stassen, who had a brilliant record as a World War II naval officer, may get the post of secretary of defense.

Vandenberg, who made good his pledge not to inspire any contrived "draft" for the presidential nomination, has indicated that he prefers to remain as Senate foreign relations chairman while Dewey's long-time adviser, John Foster Dulles, becomes secretary of state.

House GOP Leader Charles Halleck, who was ruled out as a vice presidential nominee, may be offered the postmaster generalship. Other loyal Republicans will be rewarded in kind.

Kindergarten Backers Sponsor Successful Benefit Card Party

Many Prizes Distributed

The exact sum of money derived from the benefit card party sponsored by the Circleville Kindergarten Association was not computed as of noon Friday although backers for the continuation of kindergarten declared the event was "a big success and greater than anticipated."

Approximately 225 men and women unmindful of the humidity Wednesday evening lent their support for the kindergarten and gathered in St. Joseph's Catholic recreation center, West Mound street.

Mrs. Jack Ullman won the coveted gift certificate. Numerous door prizes were distributed and a dessert course served at the conclusion of the games.

Grain Price Hinges On Pact, Claim

Capper Cites Need Of Wheat Accord

TOPEKA, Kans., July 16—American wheat farmers will be fairly safe from price-depressing surpluses of bread grain for the next five years if the International Wheat Agreement is ratified, Sen. Arthur Capper declared here today.

This agreement is among 36 nations, he said. Three countries, the United States, Canada, and Australia, agree to sell 500 million bushels annually to 33 wheat-importing nations.

The United States export share is 185 million bushels. Russia and Argentina, the two other important wheat producers, have refused so far to enter the agreement for the five-year trial run.

"The exact price for this distress wheat would be fixed by the various governments," the Kansas legislator points out. "The price of wheat to the U. S. grower would be maintained under the government supports at close to present levels."

"THIS REALLY is subsidization of wheat export. The agreement is, in fact, the two-price system, for 185 million bushels of wheat, that farm organizations have been advocating for years as the only way to dispose of United States' wheat surpluses."

Capper explains that it is better to have U. S. surpluses sold abroad at some loss to the Treasury than to have them piling up at home to depress prices of all wheat.

The Treasury would take losses anyway under our present price-support policy. He points out, however, that millers and the grain trade voice some good reasons against the plan.

"Perhaps their best argument," he adds "is that importing nations might refuse the 500 million bushels if world surpluses drove wheat below the agreement price. Their second argument is that the agreement would tend to increase state trading as opposed to private trading."

According to Capper, the situation would be no worse with the agreement than without it, and he favors it as the best method yet proposed to get rid of U. S. wheat in surplus years with least loss to producers and the Treasury.

PLANT LICE ON SPINACH LEAF

WINGED FEMALE OF SPINACH APHID

Tiny Saboteurs of Spinach

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Distributed by Central Press Association

EVEN lowly spinach has its insect enemies, among them the spinach aphid, the spinach flea beetle and a leaf miner. Protection of this popular and widely used green pays, for it is rich in many important minerals and has a high vitamin content.

The spinach aphid, also called the green peach aphid, is whitish-green in color. It is about the size of a pinhead, but it is not hard to detect if you look hard for it. These aphids usually will be found in clusters on the spinach leaves, especially on the undersides, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. The female of the species is a winged creature, as illustrated, and therefore gets around for her egg-laying activities.

Close inspection of a cluster of aphids will reveal that they are sucking sap from the leaf. As a result of the feeding of masses of aphids the leaves curl and wilt,

turn yellow and then die.

Since the spinach leaves themselves are eaten, it is not advisable to attempt to control these aphids with a poison spray harmful to human beings. One of the safest control measures is to dust the affected plants with pyrethrum dust which is not harmful to human beings. If pyrethrum is not available, use nicotine dust applied with an ordinary hand duster.

Dust under all leaves and into all leaf crevices for only those aphids actually hit by the compound will be killed. To catch all the generations of aphids as they hatch, repeat the dustings three times at intervals of three days apart.

The spinach flea beetle as well as a leaf miner are sometimes quite destructive, but care also must be taken not to attempt to control them with a spray poisonous to human beings.

Ag Agent Urges DDT Use To Curb Flies On Animals

Pickaway County milk and beef production can well be protected in a sanitation program through the use of DDT to control flies and other insects bothersome to animals during the hot Summer months.

L. A. Best, county agriculture agent, advises a 50 percent wettable DDT powder mixed at the rate of one pound in three gallons of water or 32 pounds per 100 gallons of water.

The mixture should be stirred into a thin paste and poured into a tank then add water, he said. Always, keep the material well agitated since the DDT powder rapidly settles to the bottom of the tank.

Best admitted although this was the formula set up by the Department of Agriculture, experiments in Pickaway County showed a stronger portion of DDT is needed to give any effective control on insects.

When wettable powder is used for barn spraying, it is best applied with a power sprayer. The most even coverage is obtained with a nozzle delivering a fan-shaped spray. Pressure in excess of 100 pounds will give good coverage, Best declared.

FOR A HAND compressed air sprayer, it is better to use a little more than five percent DDT emulsion prepared from liquid concentrates now sold commercially. This avoids nozzle clogging which occurs with wettable powder.

The agent reassured farmers that a stronger portion of DDT than advised by department of agriculture experts will not harm the animal or feed.

In any case, however, do not directly spray the feed, bedding or drinking supply. Residue from the spray will not be a detriment, experts say.

DDT is of little effect when used with whitewash, lime or on a dusty surface since the ingredients coat the active chemicals in the DDT.

Best said that although DDT is a very effective control of most insects, it will not protect cattle against horse flies and the larger species of blood-sucking flies which sometimes annoy them in pasture.

SANDUSKY, July 16—Don't look now, but America is in for a kraut shortage. That's the latest word from the kraut packers currently meeting here.

The expected shortage is blamed on a complete change in American kraut eating habits. According to the packers, kraut, a Wintertime staple for centuries, now has become a Summer favorite during the past two years, adding months to the kraut consumption season.

The packers reported kraut is especially popular during the Summer chilled and uncooked in salads and as a side dish, and even makes a tasty sherbet.

Grain Price Hinges On Pact, Claim

Capper Cites Need Of Wheat Accord

TOPEKA, Kans., July 16—American wheat farmers will be fairly safe from price-destroying surpluses of bread grain for the next five years if the International Wheat Agreement is ratified, Sen. Arthur Capper declared here today.

This agreement is among 36 nations, he said. Three countries, the United States, Canada, and Australia, agree to sell 500 million bushels annually to 33 wheat-importing nations.

The United States export share is 185 million bushels. Russia and Argentina, the two other important wheat producers, have refused so far to enter the agreement for the five-year trial run.

"The exact price for this distress wheat would be fixed by the governments," the Kansas senator points out. "The price of wheat to the U. S. grower would be maintained under the government supports at close to present levels."

"THIS REALLY is subsidization of wheat export. The agreement is, in fact, the two-price system, for 185 million bushels of wheat, that farm organizations have been advocating for years as the only way to dispose of United States' wheat surpluses."

Capper explains that it is better to have U. S. surpluses sold abroad at some loss to the Treasury than to have them piling up at home to depress prices of all wheat.

The Treasury would take losses anyway under our present price-support policy. He points out, however, that millers and the grain trade voice some good reasons against the plan.

"Perhaps their best argument," he adds "is that importing nations might refuse the 500 million bushels if world surpluses drove wheat below the agreement price. Their second argument is that the agreement would tend to increase state trading as opposed to private trading."

According to Capper, the situation would be no worse with the agreement than without it, and he favors it as the best method yet proposed to get rid of U. S. wheat in surplus years with least loss to producers and the Treasury.

Tiny Saboteurs of Spinach

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Distributed by Central Press Association

EVEN lowly spinach has its insect enemies, among them the spinach aphid, the spinach flea beetle and a leaf miner. Protection of this popular and widely used green pays, for it is rich in many important minerals and has a high vitamin content.

The spinach aphid, also called the green peach aphid, is whitish-green in color. It is about the size of a pinhead, but it is not hard to detect if you look hard for it. These aphids usually will be found in clusters on the spinach leaves, especially on the undersides, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. The female of the species is a winged creature, as illustrated, and therefore gets around for her egg-laying activities.

Close inspection of a cluster of aphids will reveal that they are sucking sap from the leaf. As a result of the feeding of masses of aphids the leaves curl and wilt.

turn yellow and then die.

Since the spinach leaves themselves are eaten, it is not advisable to attempt to control these aphids with a poison spray harmful to human beings. One of the safest control measures is to dust the affected plants with pyrethrum dust which is not harmful to human beings. If pyrethrum is not available, use nicotine dust applied with an ordinary hand duster.

Dust under all leaves and into all leaf crevices for only those aphids actually hit by the compound will be killed. To catch all the generations of aphids as they hatch, repeat the dustings three times at intervals of three days apart.

The spinach flea beetle as well as a leaf miner are sometimes quite destructive, but care also must be taken not to attempt to control them with a spray poisonous to human beings.

NAOMI, WOMAN OF FAITH

SHE CONQUERED SORROW THROUGH LOVE

Scripture—Ruth.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
FAITH AND loving kindness are the themes of this lesson. Naomi, wife and mother, who, through love for her daughter-in-law and unfailing kindness to her, renewed her own faith in the goodness of God toward her after her bereavement and grief therefor.

Our modern world, so full of hatred, rivalry, wrangles, intolerance and injustice, is so badly in need of kindness and love. Just simple human kindness could do so much to turn the bitterness and strife into peace.

Why do not people of all races and nations strive for understanding of one another, so that they can live together in tranquility? At the moment it seems as if this most desirable state never will be achieved, but we too must have faith that in God's own good time it will be accomplished.

We—the small people of the earth—must work toward it in our own lives, and small though our contribution may be—it will help, as the leaven in the dough leavens the whole mass.

Our story is told in the book of Ruth, but it is not Ruth who is the heroine of our lesson—it is her mother-in-law, Naomi, whose name means "pleasant one," or "blessed one."

The story starts in Bethlehem, which later became the birthplace of Jesus. It is situated five miles below Jerusalem. There lived a man named Elimelech, his wife, Naomi, and two sons, Mahlon and Chilion.

There was a famine in the land, and Elimelech decided to leave his own country and take his family to Moab, where there was food. The Moabites were of the same stock as the Hebrews, a semitic race, descended from Lot. Their language was similar to Hebrew.

Time passed and Elimelech died; the two sons grew up, and married Moabite women, Orpah and Ruth. Evidently the widowed mother and the two sons and their wives formed a happy, united family.

Sorrow struck this happy home again, however, when the two sons died, leaving the three women widows. Bereaved of husband and sons, Naomi longed for her old home, and decided she would go back to Bethlehem.

Based on copyrighted outlines produced by The International Council of Religious Education and used by permission. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

The three women started, but on the way Naomi told her daughters-in-law that they should go to their own people, each to her mother's house, marry again and have children. Orpah did as was suggested, after taking an affectionate farewell of Naomi.

Ruth, however, refused to leave her, protesting that wherever Naomi went, there she would go; that Naomi's God should be hers, and she called upon the Lord to witness that nothing but death would part the two.

When the two reached Bethlehem and people asked, "Is not this Naomi?", she answered bitterly, "Call me not Naomi, call me Mara; for the Almighty hath dealt very bitterly with me."

It was the barley season in Israel, and when the grain was reaped, poor women were permitted to follow the reapers and collect what was left of the grain for themselves. Humiliating as it must have been for Ruth, she volunteered to go into a near-by field and gather the sheaves to support herself and Naomi.

The owner of the field where Ruth gleaned was a man named Boaz, a distant relative of Naomi's and a very well known man in those parts.

He noticed Ruth and ordered his men to treat her kindly and invited her to eat her lunch with his family and servants. He even told his men to purposely leave extra grain behind in their harvesting so that Ruth might take plenty home, for he told Ruth, he had heard of her goodness to her mother-in-law.

We have already studied the story of Ruth, and know how Boaz eventually married her so that her children could inherit Elimelech's property. The whole community seems to have approved of the marriage, and when Ruth had a son, Naomi's cup of happiness was full. When told that "thy daughter-in-law, which loveth thee... hath born him... Naomi took the child, and laid it in her bosom, and became nurse unto it."

The baby was named Obed, and he was the father of Jesse and grandfather of David, therefore an ancestor of Jesus.

Thus, love and faith conquered sorrow in this beautiful Old Testament story.

New CASE Field Forage Harvester

Here's a sturdy machine which provides a real short-cut in the making of corn or sorghum silage. In one power operation, the Case field forage harvester cuts the standing row crop, chops it into short, uniform lengths, and loads the chopped material into truck or wagon driven alongside or trailed behind. Also may be equipped with pick-up attachment for windrowed hay crops, green or dry. See us about it.

NAOMI, WOMAN OF FAITH

SHE CONQUERED SORROW THROUGH LOVE

Scripture—Ruth.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
FAITH AND loving kindness are the themes of this lesson. Naomi, wife and mother, who, through love for her daughter-in-law and unflinching kindness to her, renewed her own faith in the goodness of God toward her after her bereavement and grief therefor.

Our modern world, so full of hatred, rivalry, wrangles, intolerance and injustice, is so badly in need of kindness and love. Just simple human kindness could do so much to turn the bitterness and strife into peace.

Why do not people of all races and nations strive for understanding of one another, so that they can live together in tranquility? At the moment it seems as if this most desirable state never will be achieved, but we too must have faith that in God's own good time it will be accomplished.

We—the small people of the earth—must work toward it in our own lives, and small though our contribution may be—it will help, as the leaven in the dough leavens the whole mass.

Our story is told in the book of Ruth, but it is not Ruth who is the heroine of our lesson—it is her mother-in-law, Naomi, whose name means "pleasant one," or "blessed one."

The story starts in Bethlehem, which later became the birthplace of Jesus. It is situated five miles below Jerusalem. There lived a man named Elimelech, his wife, Naomi, and two sons, Mahlon and Chilion.

There was a famine in the land, and Elimelech decided to leave his own country and take his family to Moab, where there was food. The Moabites were of the same stock as the Hebrews, a semitic race, descended from Lot. Their language was similar to Hebrew.

Time passed and Elimelech died; the two sons grew up, and married Moabite women, Orpah and Ruth. Evidently the widowed mother and the two sons and their wives formed a happy, united family.

Sorrow struck this happy home again, however, when the two sons died, leaving the three women widows. Bereaved of husband and sons, Naomi longed for her old home, and decided she would go back to Bethlehem.

Based on copyrighted outlines produced by The International Council of Religious Education and used by permission. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

The three women started, but on the way Naomi told her daughters-in-law that they should go to their own people, each to her mother's house, marry again and have children. Orpah did as was suggested, after taking an affectionate farewell of Naomi.

Ruth, however, refused to leave her, protesting that wherever Naomi went, there she would go; that Naomi's God should be hers, and she called upon the Lord to witness that nothing but death would part the two.

When the two reached Bethlehem and people asked, "Is not this Naomi?" she answered bitterly, "Call me not Naomi, call me Mara; for the Almighty hath dealt very bitterly with me." Mara means "bitter."

It was the barley season in Israel, and when the grain was reaped, poor women were permitted to follow the reapers and collect what was left of the grain for themselves. Humiliating as it must have been for Ruth, she volunteered to go into a near-by field and gather the sheaves to support herself and Naomi.

The owner of the field where Ruth gleaned was a man named Boaz, a distant relative of Naomi's, and a very well known man in those parts.

He noticed Ruth and ordered his men to treat her kindly and invited her to eat her lunch with his family and servants. He even told his men to purposely leave extra grain behind in their harvesting so that Ruth might take plenty home for her, he told Ruth, he had heard of her goodness to her mother-in-law.

We have already studied the story of Ruth, and know how Boaz eventually married her so that their children could inherit Elimelech's property. The whole community seems to have approved of the marriage, and when Ruth had a son, Naomi's cup of happiness was full. When told that "thy daughter-in-law, which loveth thee... hath born him... Naomi took the child, and laid it in her bosom, and became nurse unto it."

The baby was named Obed, and he was the father of Jesse and grandfather of David, therefore an ancestor of Jesus.

Thus, love and faith conquered sorrow in this beautiful Old Testament story.

Tot Suffocates In Ice Box

WAPAKONETA, July 16—

Five-year-old Tommy Presar who crawled into an unused icebox in his parents' garage to play, suffocated to death last yesterday.

His four-year-old companion, Pat Heintz, was in fair condition in a Lima hospital today.

Mrs. Milton Presar, Tommy's mother, found the pair in the icebox with the door shut. She said she had missed the sounds of the boys' play and gone to search for them.

Two doctors and several firemen worked over the Presar boy with no success. Mrs. Presar said the icebox had been placed in the garage only the day before the tragedy occurred.

Apparently the pyramids were built by men hauling the heavy blocks of stone up long, inclined ramps of sand.

Runaway Car Kills Woman, 80

CINCINNATI, July 16—A freak accident in which an auto, out of control, plucked across a lawn and struck two women killed one of them and left the other in serious condition today.

Mrs. Emma Louis, 80, died several hours after she was struck while sitting in front of her suburban Sharonville home. Her daughter, Mrs. Jame Daley, was in General Hospital.

Sidney Duncan, 54, of Harlingen, Tex., identified by police as the driver of the car, also was injured seriously.

DUROCHER NAMED GIANTS MANAGER

NEW YORK, July 16—Mel Ott resigned today as manager of the New York Giants.

Leo Durocher resigned as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers and was named manager of the Giants.

Burt Shotton, Dodger scout who managed the Dodgers last year, was re-named manager of the Dodgers today.

Horace Stoneham, president of the Giants, was to make an official announcement today. It had been rumored for sometime that Ott was on his way out of the New York Club.

He had been given to understand that this year he had to make good or go.

The Giants started off well but soon ran into their usual pitching troubles. Injuries to key players further hampered the Giants and soon they started to tumble toward the second division.

The club which last year led the National League with 221 homers, this year finds itself last in the league in team batting.

DONKEY GAME SCHEDULED

Boys Collect Upset Victory Over Isalys

One of the first major upsets in the Circleville Night Softball League was recorded at Ted Lewis Park Thursday when Isalys fell before Boys by an 8-4 count. The Thursday loss was only the second of the season suffered by the Isaly aggregation in league play.

The second game of the Thursday night card proved a lopsided affair, with Boys swamping Mumaws by 16-4.

In the Isaly-Boyer fracas, Boys gained the edge over their opponents in the first frame when Isaly Pitcher Dick Wellington gave up two hits, a walk, and one of his mates committed an error, allowing three Boyd tallies to cross the rubber.

Isalys posted a single tally for the first frame when Nelson Jonnes, brand new hurler in the league for Boys, walked one man and allowed two hits. The Boyd squad posted scores again in the third and sixth frames for their eight run total, while Isalys scored but once more in the game, in the fifth inning, when three runs were tallied.

Boys added six runs to its score in the next five frames, and held Mumaws down to three for the final 16-4 count.

Friday night's exhibition tilts have been called because of rain.

Next week's schedule calls for Tinks and Mumaws to meet Monday, Boys to play Boys Tuesday, and Isalys are to play Millions Wednesday. The Isaly-Millions match may be the deciding factor for league leadership for the second half of play. Millions being in a position to score a tie with the Isaly team if it should win. All league games will begin at 8:15 p. m.

IN THE SECOND game of the Thursday twin bill, Boys beat Isalys.

McCarthy Seen Winner Of Ohio Amateur Crown

DAYTON, July 16—Maurice J. McCarthy, Cincinnati's former Walker Cup team member, was the redhot favorite today to cop the 42nd Ohio amateur golf cup.

He knocked out Dayton's defending champion, Bobby Servis, five-time winner of the crown, yesterday in a second round, 20-hole match.

McCarthy then led eight survivors out of the original 64 qualifiers into the quarter-finals by erasing Bob Roll of Greenfield, 5 and 4. Roll previously had advanced by trimming Earl Hamilton of Columbus, 3 and 1.

Two rounds today will cut the field to two men who will battle for the championship tomorrow over 36 holes at Dayton's Miami Valley layout.

Eager contenders include Paul Schurtz and Don Zoller of Columbus. Schurtz whipped Dayton's Don Zoller, 2 and 1 yesterday with an under-par 70,

Tot Suffocates In Ice Box

WAPAKONETA, July 16—

Five-year-old Tommy Presar who crawled into an unused icebox in his parents' garage to play, suffocated to death late yesterday.

His four-year-old companion,
Pat Hehl, was in fair condition
in a Lima hospital today.

Mrs. Milton Presar, Tommy's mother, found the pair in the icebox with the door shut. She said she had missed the sounds of the boys' play and gone to search for them.

Two doctors and several firemen worked over the Presar boy with no success. Mrs. Presar said the icebox had been placed in the garage only the day before the tragedy occurred.

Apparently the pyramids were built by men hauling the heavy blocks of stone up long, inclined ramps of sand.

DUROCHER NAMED GIANTS MANAGER

NEW YORK, July 16—Mel
Ott resigned today as manager of the New York Giants.
Leo Durocher resigned as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers and was named manager of the Giants.
Burt Shotton, Dodger scout who managed the Dodgers
last year, was re-named manager of the Dodgers
today.

Horace Stoneham, president of the Giants, was to make an official announcement today.

It had been rumored for some time that Ott was on his way out of the New York Club.

He had been given to understand that this year he had to make good or go.

The Giants started off well but soon ran into their usual pitching troubles. Injuries to key players further hampered the Giants and soon they started to tumble toward the second division.

The club which last year led the National League with 221 homers, this year finds itself last in the league in team batting.

DONKEY GAME SCHEDULED

Boyd's Collect Upset Victory Over Isalys

One of the first major upsets in the Circleville Night Softball League was recorded at Ted Lewis Park Thursday when Isalys fell before Boyds by an 8-4 count. The Thursday loss was only the second of the season suffered by the Isaly aggregation in league play.

The second game of the Thursday night card proved a lopsided affair, with Boyers swamping Mumaws by 16-4.

In the Isaly-Boyer fracas, Boyd's gained the edge over their opponents in the first frame
when Isaly Pitcher Dick Wellington gave up two hits, a walk, and one of his mates committed an error, allowing three Boyd tallies to cross the rubber.

Isalys posted a single tally for the first frame when Nelson Jonnes, brand new hurler in the league for Boyds, walked one

Louis May Don Mitts Once More

Champ May Meet Gus Lesnevich

NEW YORK, July 16—Indications are that Joe Louis may be induced to come out of his still unofficial retirement for just one more fight.

The 20th Century Sporting Club has virtually completed arrangements for an outdoor fight on Sept. 22 and reportedly is hopeful of putting the heavyweight champion in with Gus Lesnevich, the light heavyweight titleholder.

The reports presumably spring from the fact that it is going to be next to impossible to sell the public Jersey Joe Walcott, Lesnevich or any other current fighter as heavyweight champion without a defense by Louis.

A Louis-Lesnevich fight would draw a fair sort of gate because many give Gus a fair chance to win the title.

LESNEVICH makes his next start on July 26 against Freddy Mills in London in defense of his light heavy crown. He is expected to stop Mills again, as he did several months ago.

Whether Louis will fight again depends upon how persuasive Mike Jacobs and Sol Strauss will be when they corner him with their pleas.

Louis keeps saying that he is through, but he probably feels secretly that as long as he is and in the case of Lesnevich smaller he has very little to lose by taking another fight.

There is money in it, too, even though Louis says he doesn't need any. Lesnevich doesn't really need any either, but he takes the realistic attitude that as long as there is any available he plans to continue fighting for it until he can't go any more.

In the event Louis sticks to his no-more-fights program, the 20th Century probably will come up with a Lesnevich-Ezzard Charles light heavy title fight.

Up to now Charles has been able to get nowhere in his demands for a crack at the title. This has been partly his own fault. He insisted on fighting heavyweights for a time—and got himself whipped by one of them—but now is actively campaigning for action in his own division.

Billy Carleton Grabs Feature

CHICAGO, July 16—Billy Carleton won both features, the $2,000 divided Au Revoir Trot, on last night's harness racing program at Maywood Park.

He won the sixth race at a mile by defeating Ella Siskiyon and Barney O'Dell in that order and paid $6.80, $4.40 and $4. He also won the eighth race at 1-1/16 miles and returned $5.20, $2.80 and $2.40. Moses was second and Ella Siskiyon third.

Gay One Favored In Marion Pace

MARION, July 16—The feature race at Marion Raceway to night will be the running of the $1000 Mt. Gilead Stake with seven three-year-old pacers entered for the contest.

The field is wide open with two of the areas' fastest colts heading a list of previous winners. The favorite, a winner a week ago, is a filly named Gay One with last week's contender, Bud Mite, a close second.

Cowboys Win Playground Game; Girl Finally Cops Jacks Meet

The Cowboys softball team in the Class AA league at Ted Lewis Park Summer Playground program held a 3-1 victory over the Indians there Thursday.

The Cowboys garnered but three hits in the contest, scoring a run per hit, while the Indians knocked out seven hits but scored only the one tally. Three errors accounted for most of the Cowboys' runs.

Friday's activities at the park were sharply curtailed by rain, few children of the program showing up for play. Friday's specialty was to have been a "sucker scramble".

Other Thursday events at the park included a jacks tournament, checker tourney and a sidewalk tennis doubles contest.

In the jacks contest, Barbara Binkley won first place, the first time a girl has won the contest since it was started this Summer. Runnerup was Jim Binkley.

ROGER Bennington was proclaimed champ of the checker tourney, with Bill Brannon in the runnerup position.

Joe Mogan and Skippy Johnson claimed the title in the sidewalk tennis double for boys, with Mike Rooney and John Lamson claiming runnerup sport, and Sally and Helen Mogan copped the girls' half of the tourney.

Chicagoan Set To Buy Browns If For Sale

CHICAGO, July 16—If the St. Louis Browns are really on the market, Emory J. Perry, Chicago industrialist, still is in the market.

Richard C. Muckerman, owner of the Browns, recently took St. Louis fans to task for failure to support the baseball team at the turnstiles and indicated that the club is for sale.

A year ago Perry, representing a syndicate of several men, offered Muckerman man $1,000,000 for his 160,000 shares of the club's stock.

Today, Perry said:

"I don't know whether Muckerman wants to sell his controlling interest in the Browns. The stock is still selling at $4.25 a share. However, since we last talked to James V. Dunbar, Muckerman's attorney, a year ago, the Browns have sold approximately $600,000 worth of ball players and have turned over their concession rights for another $300,000.

"We, therefore, are at a loss to know just what the real value of the St. Louis Browns might be at this time. However, if Muckerman is really interested in selling the Browns, we would be interested in knowing what he might be asking for his controlling interests at this time and what he has to offer to substantiate the value of his stock, even though the market price has held firm."

Red Birds Snap Redhot Streak Set By Brewers

By International News Service

As all good things must, Milwaukee's American Association winning streak has come to an end today after 12 straight victories.

When the roof did cave in on the Brewers, it came down hard. The Columbus Red Birds, paced by homers by Barney Olsen and Joe Garagiola, blasted the Brewers, 12 to 6.

The win ended a seven-game losing streak for the Red Birds. Despite their loss, the Brewers remained only one game behind first place Indianapolis. The Tribe lost a 1-to-0 mound battle in 10 innings at St. Paul.

Southpaw Martin gave only five hits as he bested Jim Bagby, veteran Indian ace. The Saints had nine hits off Bagby. Minneapolis defeated Toledo, 8 to 7 although outthrew, 15 to 10, by the Mud Hens. Starting hurlers Ernie Bickhaus of Toledo and Rube Fischer of the Millers proved better hitters than pitchers, each poling a homerun but leaving the scene soon afterward.

Glenn McQuillen of the Hens and Joe LaFata of Minneapolis also hit roundtrippers. Kansas City tripped Louisville, 7 to 2.

Indians Nip Mad Macks In 2 Tilts

Satchel Paige Wins 1st Game

NEW YORK, July 16—The Cleveland Indians had the laugh on their American League rivals today.

All season long, other contenders have been hammering that "the Tribe hasn't got it," despite the continued presence of the Indians at or near the top.

Last night, however, Cleveland finally shook off the Philadelphia Athletics, their most persistent pursuers. They forged 2-1/2 games ahead of the Mad Macks by beating them in both ends of a twilight doubleheader.

Furthermore, the Indians came up with airtight pitching from two rather unexpected sources. In the first game, Steve Gromek held the A's to four hits and beat them 6 to 1.

In the nightcap Satchel Paige, the great Negro hurler who must be closer to 50 than he cares to admit, got into the game in a relief role and won his first major league victory, 2 to 5. Larry Doby, another Negro on the Cleveland roster, insured the victory by clouting a two-run homer in the ninth.

THE NEW YORK Yankees

went into a virtual tie with the A's for second place by beating the St. Louis Browns under the arc lights, 4 to 2, behind Frank Hiller.

Boston's Red Sox trounced Detroit 13 to 5, with Jack Kramer racking up his eighth straight victory and snapping Detroit's seven-game winning streak.

In the night game it took Boston only an hour and 22 minutes to beat the Tigers again, 3 to 1, with Mel Parnell holding the Tigers to six hits and the Sox getting only four off Dizzy Trout.

Washington's Rae Scarborough beat the Chicago White Sox in a night game, 4 to 1.

The Boston Braves, who have won five in a row, now enjoy a six-game lead in the National League. Johnny Sain showed his appreciation for an unexpected raise in pay by beating the Cubs 2 to 1. The second game was halted by darkness at the end of the 13th with the score tied at 1 to 1.

Pittsburgh nosed out the Giants 4 to 3 on Stan Rojek's ninth-inning single, but was swamped in the nightcap 10 to 3.

Dutch Leonard, veteran knuckleballer of the Phillies, bested Harry (The Cat) Brecheen 3 to 1 under the arc lights as the St. Louis Cardinals suffered their sixth defeat in their last seven starts.

Brooklyn's Rex Barney held the Reds to five hits and beat them 5 to 3 in another night game.

Cowboys Win Playground Game; Girl Finally Cops Jacks Meet

The Cowboys softball team in the Class AA league at Ted Lewis Park Summer Playground program held a 3-1 victory over the Indians there Thursday.

The Cowboys garnered but three hits in the contest, scoring a run per hit, while the Indians knocked out seven hits but scored only the one tally. Three errors accounted for most of the Cowboys' runs.

Friday's activities at the park were sharply curtailed by rain, few children of the program showing up for play. Friday's specialty was to have been a "sucker scramble".

Other Thursday events at the park included a jacks tournament, checker tourney and a sidewalk tennis doubles contest.

In the jacks contest, Barbara Binkley won first place, the first time a girl has won the contest since it was started this Summer. Runnerup was Jim Binkley.

ROGER Bennington was proclaimed champ of the checker tourney, with Bill Brannon in the runnerup position.

Joe Mogan and Skippy Johnson claimed the title in the sidewalk tennis double for boys, with Mike Rooney and John Lampson claiming runnerup sport, and Sally and Helen Mogan copped the girls' half of the tourney.

Chicagoan Set To Buy Browns If For Sale

CHICAGO, July 16—If the St. Louis Browns are really on the market, Emory J. Perry, Chicago industrialist, still is in the market.

Richard C. Muckerman, owner of the Browns, recently took St. Louis fans to task for failure to support the baseball team at the turnstiles and indicated that the club is for sale.

A year ago Perry, representing a syndicate of several men, offered Muckerman a $1,000,000 for his 160,000 shares of the club's stock.

Today, Perry said:

"I don't know whether Muckerman wants to sell his controlling interest in the Browns. The stock is still selling at $4.25 a share. However, since we last talked to James V. Dunbar, Muckerman's attorney, a year ago, the Browns have sold approximately $600,000 worth of ball players and have turned over their concession rights for another $300,000.

"We, therefore, are at a loss to know just what the real value of the St. Louis Browns might be at this time. However, if Muckerman is really interested in selling the Browns, we would be interested in knowing what he might be asking for his controlling interests at this time and what he has to offer to substantiate the value of his stock, even though the market price has held firm."

Red Birds Snap Redhot Streak Set By Brewers

By International News Service

As all good things must, Milwaukee's American Association winning streak has come to an end today after 12 straight victories.

When the roof did cave in on the Brewers, it came down hard. The Columbus Red Birds, paced by homers by Barney Olsen and Joe Garagiola, blasted the Brewers, 12 to 6.

The win ended a seven-game losing streak for the Red Birds. Despite their loss, the Brewers remained only one game behind first place Indianapolis. The Tribe lost a 1-to-0 mound battle in 10 innings at St. Paul.

Southpaw Morris Martin gave only five hits as he bested Jim Bagby, veteran Indian ace. The Saints had nine hits off Bagby. Minneapolis defeated Toledo, 8 to 7 although outlit, 15 to 10, by the Mud Hens. Starting hurlers Ernie Bickhaus of Toledo and Rube Fischer of the Millers proved better hitters than pitchers, each poling a homerun but leaving the scene soon afterward.

Glenn McQuillen of the Hens and Joe LaFata of Minneapolis also hit roundtrippers. Kansas City tripped Louisville, 7 to 2.

Indians Nip Mad Macks In 2 Tilts

Satchel Paige Wins 1st Game

NEW YORK, July 16 — The Cleveland Indians had the laugh on their American League rivals today.

All season long, other contenders have been yammering that "the Tribe hasn't got it," despite the continued presence of the Indians at or near the top.

Last night, however, Cleveland finally shook off the Philadelphia Athletics, their most persistent pursuers. They forged 2-1/2 games ahead of the Mad Macks by beating them in both ends of a twilight doubleheader.

Furthermore, the Indians came up with airtight pitching from two rather unexpected sources. In the first game, Steve Gromek held the A's to four hits and beat them 6 to 1.

In the nightcap Satchel Paige, the great Negro hurler who must be closer to 50 than he cares to admit, got into the game in a relief role and won his first major league victory, 8 to 5. Larry Doby, another Negro on the Cleveland roster, insured the victory by clouting a two-run homer in the ninth.

THE NEW YORK Yankees went into a virtual tie with the A's for second place by beating the St. Louis Browns under the arc lights, 4 to 2, behind Frank Hiller.

Boston's Red Sox trounced Detroit 13 to 5, with Jack Kramer racking up his eighth straight victory and snapping Detroit's seven-game winning streak.

In the night game it took Boston only an hour and 22 minutes to beat the Tigers again, 3 to 1, with Mel Parnell holding the Tigers to six hits and the Sox getting only four off Dizzy Trout.

Washington's Rae Scarborough beat the Chicago White Sox in a night game, 4 to 1.

The Boston Braves, who have won five in a row, now enjoy a six-game lead in the National League. Johnny Sain showed his appreciation for an unexpected raise in pay by beating the Cubs 2 to 1. The second game was halted by darkness at the end of the 13th with the score tied at 1 to 1.

Pittsburgh nosed out the Giants 4 to 3 on Stan Rokj's ninth-inning single, but was swamped in the nightcap 10 to 3.

Dutch Leonard, veteran knuckle-baller of the Phillies, bested Harry (The Cat) Brecheen 3 to 1 under the arc lights as the St. Louis Cardinals suffered their sixth defeat in their last seven starts.

Brooklyn's Rex Barney held The Reds to five hits and beat them 5 to 3 in another night game.

Alabama Kid To Try Again

COLUMBUS, July 16—The Alabama Kid, heavyweight boxer who grew up on the streets of Columbus but fought for 10 years in Australia, will attempt to erase the stigma of first homecoming defeat tonight when he goes against Bob Gardner of Louisville.

Bama dropped a decision to Detroit's Bob Amos in his initial hometown appearance. The event tonight is for a scheduled 10 rounds.

24 Events Booked During County Fair's Horse Show

6 Classes Booked For First Day

Competition Set For Pony Groups

The highly touted two-day horse and pony show scheduled for Sept. 15 and 16 during the Pickaway County Fair will feature 24 events in the main equine attraction and spotlight top performance from many notable stables.

The horse show is sponsored at the fair by the Pickaway County Agriculture Society, officials of which are handling all entries and prizes to be awarded winners.

While the fair is booked from Sept. 14 through 18th, the horse and pony show will be featured in afternoon and evening events on Sept. 15, and an evening performance only on Sept. 16, officials disclosed.

With the entry date deadline set for Sept. 6, officials are optimistic about the top-grade horse flesh expected to make an appearance on the County Fairgrounds.

SIX CLASS events are posted for the first afternoon performance and will include the closed pony class for Pickaway County, saddle bred mare and foal of 1948, pleasure horse for countians, pony mare and foal of 1948, three-gaited combination and five-gaited amateur.

Other events for the evening will pit the best in ponies under 46-inches and over 46-inches, three gaited saddle horses, five-gaited mares, walking horses, stallions, mares, geldings, fine harness, hunter and jumper.

Top prizes are booked for the Sept. 16 evening show in the five-gaited stake, three-gaited stake and walking horse stake. The hunter and jumper stake also was listed among the top prize winners in events.

A blanket entrance fee of $12 per horse permits the exhibitor to show his horse in any class in which he is qualified. A $5 fee will cover all ponies.

Horses in the show must necessarily show in their qualifying classes to be eligible for the stakes while stake horses cannot enter pleasure classes. Nor can ponies enter horse classes or vice-versa, officials ruled.

Good stabling facilities may be made under canvas and all horses will be required to be stabled except stallions. Stalls in a permanent structure will be guaranteed for all stallions.

Federal Law Saves Postoffice Job Of Entering Marital Fuss

A tale demonstrating the value of a U. S. postal law evolved from Circleville postoffice this week. The law is that no addresses shall be given by postal employees.

The story coming from the local postoffice is that a slightly bedraggled, rather oldish woman ambled into the building and demanded she be told the whereabouts of two people she believed to be living in Circleville.

The answer she received for her demand was, "sorry, can't tell you that."

"Well, do they live around here?" was her next query. "Can't tell you that either," was the answer. "However, if you're determined to find the people try the police."

"DETERMINED" to find them?" exploded the woman. "I'll say I am. The girl's address I asked you for belongs to my daughter. My husband's living with her. And when I find that son-of-a-gun I'm gonna divorce him. You know, I ain't seen him for more than eight years?"

Local postal men are still N. Y., Grange hall a week from Saturday.

Dewey stated in a telegram that he would like Fichter to present his views on the country's long range and current agricultural problems. Other national farm leaders will be present.

HERE'S WHERE WE STAND ON New-Car Selling

Our "Foursquare Selling Policy" assures you a Fair Deal when you buy a new car

Let's bring this subject right out in the open.

Many conditions still exist which encourage the "gray marketing" of automobiles.

You don't like this—and neither do we.

There's no law against "under the counter" deals—demanding a bonus for early delivery.

There's no law against loading cars with accessories the customer doesn't want or need.

There's no law against selling to buyers who make it their business to resell new cars at inflated prices.

But we still don't believe it's good business to gouge our customers.

All dealers buy cars at clearly established factory prices which are the same, model for model, all over the country. All start on a fair and equal basis—and all should be able to sell at fair and reasonable delivered prices.

So we're making public announcement of our code of fair dealing.

Our foursquare selling policy, simply stated, is this:

We guarantee our delivered prices to contain nothing but the charges which were standard practice in figuring prewar delivered prices. You receive an itemized bill of sale. We display all prices in our showrooms—and sell at these listed figures.

2 NO LOADING OF UNWANTED ACCESSORIES

All cars are delivered with factory-installed accessories, and prices are figured to cover these. We pledge ourselves to add no "extras" except those each customer orders—and to avoid using "extras" to increase the delivered price.

We want to express our sincere appreciation to our many customers and friends for their patience in awaiting their turn for delivery of a new Buick. We are doing our utmost to be fair and equitable in the distribution of cars during a period when supply is lagging behind demand.

We present this platform because we

3 NO COMPULSORY TRADE-INS

We will take your order and deliver a car without requiring a trade-in. However, we have many valued used-car customers who also depend upon us to supply them with automobiles. For this reason we would like to have your trade-in, and we'll give you a fair and reasonable allowance on it.

4 NO COLLUSION WITH "GRAY MARKET" DEALERS

While we cannot prevent our customers from reselling new cars, we will not knowingly be a party to such deals, in the case of individuals or of dealers who operate in the "gray market." Our only interest is to deliver new cars to bona fide customers.

Lad, 15, Held In Farm Fires

LONDON, July 16—The Madison County sheriff's office here held a 15-year-old farmhand today for setting two fires that did damage estimated at $13,500.

Sheriff Harold R. Bidwell said the boy admitted setting fire to two barns on the Ray Butz farm near Mt. Sterling, where he was employed, but that he offered no motive for the crimes.

Deputy Robert Allison said 100 tons of hay, 500 bushels of wheat and several farm machines were destroyed in one blaze.

HERE'S WHERE WE STAND ON New-Car Selling

Our "Foursquare Selling Policy" assures you a Fair Deal when you buy a new car

Let's bring this subject right out in the open.

Many conditions still exist which encourage the "gray marketing" of automobiles.

You don't like this—and neither do we.

There's no law against "under the counter" deals—demanding a bonus for early delivery.

There's no law against loading cars with accessories the customer doesn't want or need.

There's no law against selling to buyers who make it their business to resell new cars at inflated prices.

But we still don't believe it's good business to gouge our customers.

All dealers buy cars at clearly established factory prices which are the same, model for model, all over the country. All start on a fair and equal basis—and all should be able to sell at fair and reasonable delivered prices.

So we're making public announcement of our code of fair dealing.

Our foursquare selling policy, simply stated, is this:

- 1 NO PADDING OF PRICES
We guarantee our delivered prices to contain nothing but the charges which were standard practice in figuring prewar delivered prices. You receive an itemized bill of sale. We display all prices in our showrooms—and sell at these listed figures.
- 2 NO LOADING OF UNWANTED ACCESSORIES
All cars are delivered with factory-installed accessories, and prices are figured to cover these. We pledge ourselves to add no "extras" except those each customer orders—and to avoid using "extras" to increase the delivered price.
- 3 NO COMPULSORY TRADE-INS
We will take your order and deliver a car without requiring a trade-in. However, we have many valued used-car customers who also depend upon us to supply them with automobiles. For this reason we would like to have your trade-in, and we'll give you a fair and reasonable allowance on it.
- 4 NO COLLUSION WITH "GRAY MARKET" DEALERS
While we cannot prevent our customers from reselling new cars, we will not knowingly be a party to such deals, in the case of individuals or of dealers who operate in the "gray market." Our only interest is to deliver new cars to bona fide customers.

We want to express our sincere appreciation to our many customers and friends for their patience in awaiting their turn for delivery of a new Buick. We are doing our utmost to be fair and equitable in the distribution of cars during a period when supply is lagging behind demand.

We present this platform because we believe it's good business to keep our customers informed.

It's a platform that gives you a fair deal when you buy a new car—exactly the same deal you got before the war.

If you want this kind of deal, come see us when you're ready to place your order.
